Electric blue, fuchsia, rust, green and burgundy red: saturated, at times striking shades that recapture something of the chromatic freedom and experimental spirit that characterised design in the 1960s and 1970s.
These five colours, therefore, are not treated merely as an extension of the colour range, nor as a pretext for turning Elmetto into a nostalgic exercise, but take on a personality of their own.
This is Elmetto 50, a special flocked edition — a deliberately bolder reinterpretation of the original design's purity.
